

EXPENSES, FINANCIAL AID, SCHOLARSHIPS AND OTHER FINANCIAL INFORMATION

College Expenses

Tuition

The tuition charge at CMC for the 2004-2005 academic year is $29,010, approximately 50 percent of the actual cost of the education each student receives. The College bears the additional cost through past gifts, now in use as endowments, and through current gifts. These additional resources, in effect, provide every student with a scholarship. Based on recent experience, tuition should be expected to increase every year due to growing costs. At the same time, CMC is committed to helping students who need financial aid through an extensive program of scholarships, grants, loans, and employment.

The College reserves the right to change fees at any time.

Part-Time Student Tuition

Students carrying fewer than three courses pay tuition of $4,835 per course, and $2,418 per one-half course.

These part-time student costs, for up to two-and-a-half courses, also apply to CMC students who have received permission to study in absentia. The charge for three or more courses in absentia is full tuition.

Room and Board

• Residence Halls

The charge for a double room in a CMC residence hall is $4,870 per student, per year. The charge for a single room is $5,480 for the academic year. These rental charges cover only the period when classes are scheduled, and the residence halls are closed for occupation during winter break.

• CMC Apartments

The rental charges for the four-person, four-bedroom, two-bathroom configuration are $5,360 per student, per year. The charge for the two-person studio units is $4,480 per person, per year.

• Board Plans

Resident students may sign up for one of three meal plan options:

- 16 meals/$160 flex (per semester) for $4,910 per year
- 12 meals/$120 flex (per semester) for $4,520 per year
- 8 meals/$80 flex (per semester) for $4,210 per year

Students who commute may purchase meals as they choose.

Flex dollars can be used to purchase additional meals during the semester at any dining hall at The Claremont Colleges, or to purchase food and beverage items at any of the snack bars at The Colleges that utilize a card reader. The CMC dining hall is closed during winter and spring breaks. (See Guide to Student Life for further residential life policies.)

The cost of living off-campus is generally similar to on-campus charges.

Student Fees

Students are responsible for a variety of fees, including the following:

• Student Activities Fee

Current students pay a student body fee of $200 per year; fees are used to support student activities.

• Off-Campus Students Fee

Full-time students living off-campus pay a fee of $100 per year, to contribute to the cost of maintaining college facilities that are not only used by on-campus students but also by those living off-campus (for example, the Marian Miner Cook Athenaeum, Emett Student Center, McKenna Auditorium, etc.).

• Laboratory and Other Course Fees

Students taking courses with a laboratory are charged laboratory fees; some other courses also have fees. After the final date to enter courses, no course fees are refunded. See course descriptions for applicable fees.

- Library Processing Fee

The Claremont Colleges' libraries charge a $15 processing fee for lost library books. The fee is not refundable even if a book is later returned.

Other Expenses

Actual costs for a year at CMC include expenses for books and supplies, clothing, travel, recreation and incidentals. Generally, books cost about $850 per year; other expenses vary considerably from student to student, but $1,000 is adequate for most students. There are also fees for parking cars on campus.

Insurance

Health insurance is strongly recommended for all students, and new students entering in the Fall 2004 and after are required to carry health insurance. Students participating in intercollegiate athletics or club sports are also required to carry health insurance. Information is mailed to each student and also is available from the Health Services Office and the Office of the Dean of Students.

An accident and sickness medical policy is available to all full-time students to protect them against major costs. It is designed to supplement care provided by the health service; it includes benefits for accidental injuries, hospitalization, surgery, doctors' visits in the hospital, emergency care, and ambulance.

The College assumes no responsibility for loss or damage to students' personal property; adequate coverage is advised.

Other Financial Information

Payment Plans

- Fixed Tuition Plan

To offer students a way to stabilize their tuition expenses, CMC offers a fixed tuition plan. All incoming full-time students (with no less than four nor more than eight semesters of course work remaining before graduation) may elect to participate in the prepaid tuition program. With certain restrictions, this plan allows a student to prepay the full tuition balance at a rate equal to the tuition charged during the semester the student first enrolls.

- Monthly Payment Plan

Annual charges may be paid in 10 monthly installments beginning on the 20th of July and ending on the 20th of April, with a service charge of $100 per semester. This payment privilege may be revoked for cause.

Electronic Payments

All account payments may be made electronically by a transfer of funds through the Automated Clearing House (ACH). The College does not accept credit cards.

Due Dates and Delinquent Accounts

Payment of all regular charges, minus granted or anticipated financial aid, is due two weeks before the start of the semester. An account is considered delinquent ten days after the due date. Delinquent accounts will incur a late payment fee of one percent of the unpaid delinquent balance. A student whose account is delinquent will not be allowed to obtain an official transcript, or to pre-register for the subsequent semester, and may be disenrolled.

Refunds

Students who withdraw during the semester may be eligible for refunds, depending upon the time of the withdrawal. Students must give written notification to the registrar of their decision to withdraw and complete the withdrawal procedures in order to be eligible for any refunds.

Tuition, student body fees, board charges, scholarships, and grants will be prorated based on the number of days a student is registered at CMC, up to the 60 percent point of the semester. After that point, a student is no longer eligible for refunds. Room charges will not be prorated unless a new student occupant is immediately available.

Students suspended or dismissed from the College for disciplinary reasons during the semester receive no refunds.

Financing Off-Campus Study

• Study Abroad

CMC students studying abroad do not pay regular CMC tuition, room and board. Students studying abroad pay the instructional costs of the program, as well as the costs of round-trip transportation, meals, housing, insurance, visa, local transportation, etc. These costs vary for each program, and although the total cost of many programs is lower than the cost of a semester (or year) on campus, this is not always the case. Students are billed by CMC for the program fees (minus the acceptance deposit) in the same intervals in which they would normally receive their CMC bills.

Students on financial aid continue to receive financial aid while abroad, but the aid package will be adjusted proportionally to the costs of the program, and will not exceed the amount granted for a semester or year at CMC. While abroad, students on financial aid will continue to receive state and federal aid, as well as private and merit scholarships. Students with CMC grants-in-aid will also continue to receive their grants, but the grants will be adjusted depending upon the cost of the program and will not exceed on campus grants.

• Washington Program

CMC students participating in the College's Washington Program continue to pay CMC tuition and student body fee to cover the costs of the academic program, special events, field trips, and round-trip transportation. Expenses for housing, meals, health insurance, and local transportation are the responsibility of the participants. Students receiving financial aid continue to receive state and federal aid, as well as private and merit scholarships. Students with CMC grants-in-aid will also continue to receive their grants. For students on the Washington

Program the total financial aid package they receive will include a moderate increase in aid, to compensate students for the higher cost of living in Washington, D.C.

• U.S. Exchange Programs

CMC students participating in U.S. exchange programs pay CMC tuition, room and board, and student body fee. Students receiving financial aid will continue to receive their full CMC package during their semester off-campus. Participants are responsible for transportation expenses to the program.

Financial Aid

Claremont McKenna College coordinates a comprehensive program of scholarships, grants, loans, and student employment with funds from its own resources, federal and state governments, and other sources. Approximately two-thirds of CMC students receive aid to help meet their expenses.

Financial aid is awarded in the form of grants, loans, student employment, or some combination of these sources. The combined aid awarded each student is called a "package." In 2003-2004, the average grant package from all sources was $21,215.

Students with questions about financial aid should first consult a financial aid officer; appeals may be taken to the chair of the Committee on Admission and Financial Aid, the Committee itself, and, finally, to the President.

Student Eligibility

To be eligible for federal financial aid, students must:

- have demonstrated financial need (see below)
- be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident
- make satisfactory academic progress (see below)
- be enrolled as a CMC student
- register with the Selective Service, if required
- sign a statement of educational purpose/certification statement on refunds and default

Institutional aid eligibility varies according to the program (i.e., grants, college loans, etc.); in most cases, students must meet the above standards to receive college aid.

• Financial Need

The total amount of aid awarded a student is based upon need; in calculating that amount, all financial factors in the candidate's family are considered. The financial need of all recipients is reviewed each year and may be revised depending on family financial circumstances; students and parents must apply annually for financial aid.

Financial need is based on the cost of a CMC education, minus a student's expected family contribution. Family contribution is calculated from the information provided by students and parents on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the College Scholarship Service (CSS) Financial Aid PROFILE. Federal aid eligibility is calculated by a formula established by Congress. CMC uses a more in-depth formula to establish family contributions for a student's CMC institutional aid.

• Satisfactory Academic Progress

Continuing eligibility for financial aid requires that students make satisfactory progress toward a degree. To do so, they must meet the following minimum requirements:

- Complete at least three (3) full courses per semester
- Not be on probation for more than two (2) consecutive semesters
- Maintain at least a cumulative grade point average of "C" (6.00) or have academic standing consistent with the institution's requirements
- Complete the following minimum cumulative number of courses toward the degree:

Class	Courses
First year	7
Second year	15
Third year	23

Students who withdraw from courses, either during the semester or retroactively, are not making satisfactory progress if they complete less than three courses per semester. Students will not receive credit for incomplete courses until all work has been completed and a final grade posted by the registrar. Credit for repeated courses is granted only if the student previously received a grade of "F."

Length of Financial Aid

First-time new students may receive financial aid for up to eight semesters. Returning students who received no financial aid initially but find themselves in need because of changed circumstances should request aid from the College.

Eligibility for transfer students is determined by their academic classification at entry and their expected graduation date. The CMC registrar determines the transfer courses accepted toward the degree, which determines the number of remaining semesters for which aid may be offered.

Student Contributions

Students with upper class standing are expected to contribute more towards their expenses than underclass students, because students' earning power presumably increases as they progress toward their degree.

Off-Campus Students

Students living off-campus may have credit balances on their account. These balances are not disbursed until funds creating the balance (a student loan, for example) are received and processed.

California Residents and Cal Grants

CMC requires all students who are California residents to apply for a Cal Grant. To be considered, students must submit a GPA Verification Form certified by a high school or college official no later than March 2; it must be mailed directly to the California Student Aid Commission.

International Students

Although the College occasionally gives financial assistance to international students, it rarely provides them with sufficient funds to cover all expenses. Foreign students who cannot carry a substantial portion of their expenses should not apply to CMC.

Federal Regulations and the Academic Year

For federal financial regulations, the academic year consists of two semesters, both 16 weeks in length. Classes begin on a Tuesday in both the fall semester and the spring semester, and the semesters end with the last day of final exams. Students are expected to complete an average of four courses per semester, which is the equivalent of 16 semester units per term, in order to maintain their eligibility for financial aid.

The fall semester includes partial weeks at the beginning of the term and during fall break. Furthermore, because classes meet three days prior to Thanksgiving break, that week also counts toward the sixteen week fall semester. The spring semester begins the third week in January following a winter break. The spring semester is sixteen weeks in length, not including the week of spring break.

Financial Aid Applications

CMC strongly recommends early application for financial aid; students who apply late for financial aid are not guaranteed aid even though they already have been admitted. For further information, contact the Financial Aid Office.

Application forms for grants, scholarships, and loans are available in the Financial Aid Office.

• New Students

New students admitted for the Fall semester (freshmen and transfers) who have demonstrated financial need and applied for financial aid by the deadlines, are awarded the aid they need. While CMC strives to meet each student's full need, late applicants may not receive scholarships or grants, because of funding caps and needs of "on time" applicants. Candidates should pay close attention to the deadlines for financial aid applications, which may not be the same as admission deadlines.

All freshmen candidates who wish to apply for financial aid must complete and submit the following two forms not later than

February 1:

- Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) Form

This form must be submitted directly to the Federal Processor. The FAFSA can be completed on the web by connecting to FAFSA (www.fafsa.ed.gov). Be sure to enter CMC's institutional code 001170 in the appropriate place on the form.

- CSS Financial Aid PROFILE Form

This form must be submitted to the College Scholarship Service. This form is available from the College Board by completing a brief registration process. Students can register by calling a toll-free telephone number, or connecting to College Board online on the web (www.collegeboard.com). CMC's CSS code #4054 must be listed on the PROFILE registration form. Further information is available from high school guidance counselors or the CMC Admission and Financial Aid Office.

Early Decision (ED) candidates may apply for either Early Decision I or II. Financial aid applicants must file a CSS Financial Aid PROFILE by November 1 for ED I or December 1 for ED II.

Transfer candidates for either fall or spring are only eligible for financial aid if they have submitted both the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) Form, and the Financial Aid PROFILE form by March 1. (Please review above information for freshmen for instructions.)

- Returning Students

Returning students must reapply for financial aid for the next academic year by completing and sending both the FAFSA and CSS Financial Aid PROFILE to the appropriate offices by March 1. CMC distributes renewal application information to all students receiving some form of financial aid in mid-November. If a student does not receive renewal application information, it is the student's responsibility to contact the Financial Aid Office to obtain the information. The office makes every effort to communicate about application deadlines and other requirements throughout the year.

Notification

Financial aid award letters are usually sent to new CMC students within a few days or with the letter of admission, assuming the student filed the appropriate forms with CSS by February 1. CMC tries to help students make a commitment decision by providing financial aid information as soon as possible.

Types of Financial Aid

• Grants

CMC uses gifts given to the College by individuals and organizations to fund College Grants to help students with their college costs (see "Scholarships"). Grants are usually available to students who demonstrate a need and apply for financial aid; they range from $1,000 to $39,000 per year, and averaged $18,000 in 2003-2004.

The California Student Loan Commission awards Cal Grants on the basis of academic ability and financial need. CMC requires all students who are California residents to apply every year for a Cal Grant.

Federal Pell Grants are a direct grant from the federal government to students; they range from $400 to $4,050. Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG) are awarded to CMC by the government to aid exceptionally needy students. Individual FSEOG grants vary in amount, and are awarded according to CMC's packaging policies.

• Loans

The Federal Family Educational Loan

Program offers a variety of low-interest federal loans to help students pay for college. These loans are made by banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions, and are insured by the federal government. These loans have an adjustable interest rate that changes each July 1. Under this program, students may borrow between $2,625 and $5,500 depending on their class year. Six months after graduation or withdrawal, student borrowers begin repayment in quarterly installments. Postponement of repayment is available for graduate studies, military service, and other approved circumstances.

Subsidized Federal Stafford Loans are for students who demonstrate financial need; the funds are transmitted electronically or mailed to the College and released in two or more payments. A student must demonstrate need as determined by the College.

Unsubsidized Federal Stafford Loans also are available; students may borrow within the same limit and interest rate terms as the subsidized program. With the exception of demonstrating financial need, borrowers must meet all eligibility criteria for financial aid programs. Family income does not affect loan eligibility or disqualify borrowers from obtaining an unsubsidized loan. Although interest rates are the same as for subsidized loans, the federal government does not pay interest on these loans while borrowers are enrolled in school or in deferment; interest payments begin immediately after the loan is fully disbursed, or may be added to the principal balance.

Federal Perkins Loans are low-interest (5 percent) loans, for students with exceptional financial need. They are made through CMC's Financial Aid Office, and CMC is the lender. Annual loan amounts range from $500 to $4,000. Interest accrual and repayment of principal do not begin until nine months after graduation or withdrawal. Postponement of principal and interest payments is available for graduate studies, military service, and other approved circumstances.

College Student Loans also are available;

CMC uses these funds when needed to supplement federal programs. College loan funds may carry interest, and monthly repayment of the principal usually begins six months after students leave CMC, graduate, or cease enrollment on at least a half-time basis. CMC may postpone repayment for full-time graduate study.

Federal PLUS Loans are federally-sponsored loans for parents who wish to borrow on behalf of their dependent children enrolled at least half-time in college. The loan must be repaid in full with interest by the parent-borrower. Like Federal Stafford Loans, these loans are made by a bank, credit union, or savings and loan association. These loans have an adjustable interest rate that changes every July 1. PLUS loans are disbursed in two or more payments and are mailed to the College.

• Student Employment

Many students earn part of their college expenses through student employment, funded by the College and the Federal Work-Study program.

On-campus jobs are available in such places as the dining hall, Emett Center, the Athenaeum, the bookstore, library, building and grounds department, and in a number of academic or administrative offices.

Federal College Work Study is a financial aid program that enables CMC to place eligible students in on- or off-campus jobs funded by both the federal program and CMC. Students must apply for financial assistance each year and meet federal eligibility requirements.

Non-Work Study Employment also is available on campus; it is funded through non-Work Study funding and department budgets. These positions are filled directly through the department.

Jobs also are available off-campus in Claremont and nearby communities.

Disbursement of Financial Aid Funds

Grants, scholarships and loans are generally disbursed in two installments annually and are credited directly to individual student accounts.

Federal Work Study and other student employment earnings are paid bi-weekly directly to the student.

Financial Aid Refund Policies

If a student who receives federal aid withdraws before the end of the semester, the College uses the formula mandated by the United States Department of Education to return these funds. Federal funds must be returned in the following order:

- Unsubstantiated Stafford Loan
- Subsidized Stafford Loan
- Perkins Loan
- PLUS
- Pell Grant
- Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG)
- Other Federal Title IV Programs

Work Study is not included in the calculation of a refund.

Short Term Loans

Short term loans are available to students, interest-free, regardless of financial need, when faced with unexpected emergencies. Repayment is required within a short period of time; repayment schedules are established with each student on an individual basis, contingent on his/her unique circumstances.

These funds are made available through the Associated Students CMC Loan Fund or the Student Emergency Loan Fund.

Scholarships

Scholarship Programs

• McKenna Achievement Awards

Each year, CMC awards approximately 30 McKenna Achievement Awards Program scholarships to new freshmen. These awards are made on the basis of academic and personal achievements, without regard to financial need. Awards are $5,000 per year, renewable for four years of undergraduate study.

To be considered for a McKenna

Achievement Award, candidates must submit all credentials for admission by December 20.

Finalists for the McKenna Achievement Awards are chosen from among all candidates for admission who have straight A's or nearly straight A's in high school, whose SAT I scores are 680 or higher in each section, or whose ACT composite score is 31 or higher, and who have significant extracurricular achievement. Finalists must attend an interview program on campus in early March (at the College's expense), and are notified of the final awards in early April.

These awards are made possible through the special assistance of the H.N. & Frances C. Berger Foundation, the Donald C. McKenna Foundation, Harris and Ann Seed, Shirley Smith Peschka, the Alice Tweed Tuohy Foundation, and the Uhlmann Foundation. The awards are:

- Berger Scholarships
- McKenna Achievement Awards
- Seed Scholarships
- Tuohy Honor Scholarships
- Uhlmann Scholarships

Academic scholarships are awarded with the expectation that recipients will perform academically at a level commensurate with their ability. To remain eligible for McKenna Achievement Awards Program scholarships, students must maintain a GPA of B (9.00) and make satisfactory progress towards the degree. The two most recent consecutive semesters are used to determine if a student has met these standards. If a student fails to meet these requirements, the scholarship is suspended until the requirements are met.

• National Merit Scholarships

Each year, CMC sponsors several National Merit Scholarships and grants awards of $1,000 or $2,000. National Merit Scholarships are offered in addition to any aid based on need, with the exception of CMC-sponsored National Merit Scholarships. In some cases, other College grant aid may be reduced to coordinate with California State Grants and Federal Programs.

• Reserve Officer Training Corps Scholarships

Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) scholarships are available to qualified applicants, including entering freshmen. Information is available from the Military Science Department in Bauer Center.

Air Force ROTC scholarships are available through the AFROTC program at Harvey Mudd College on a competitive basis. For information, contact the Department of Aerospace Studies at Harvey Mudd, (909) 607-8117.

Applications for four-year ROTC scholarships for new students are due on November 15 of the year prior to entrance. Two, three, and 3 1/2-year scholarships are awarded throughout the academic year.

• Margaret Martin Brock Internship Award

The Margaret Martin Brock Internship fund is an endowed fund whose income is available to supplement general expenses for two students who participate in the Washington Program. This scholarship is awarded by the selection committee for the internship program; no application is required.

Scholarships and Grant Funds

CMC provides a comprehensive scholarship and grant fund from its own general institutional resources. In addition, numerous donors have established several hundred scholarships to fund CMC grants. These funds are awarded based on specific donor preferences. Students must complete the financial aid application process to be considered for these scholarships and grants. To learn more about specific awards, contact the Financial Aid Office.
