Professor Harold W. (Bill) Rood was a great teacher, mentor, and friend to many generations of students of history and international relations, especially those at Claremont McKenna College. Born in 1922, he served as a heavy machine gunner and a radio operator in Patton's Third Army, in the European Theater of Operations, where he rose to the rank of private first class. He continued his military service in the Army Reserve during the Korean War as an order of battle specialist and a strategic intelligence analyst. He also served on the staff and faculty of the Sixth Army Intelligence School.

Dr. Rood earned a B.A. and Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of California, Berkeley. He was appointed to the Government Department faculty of Claremont Men's College in 1962, and came to hold the W.M. Keck Foundation Chair of International Strategic Studies. Dr. Rood won multiple Outstanding Teacher Awards at CMC and established himself as a favorite among CMC undergrads, while attracting a loyal following from then-Claremont Graduate School (now University). He is survived by his wife, Juanita, and daughters Hilary and Elizabeth.

Dr. Stephen Cambone is the founder of Adirondack Advisors, LLC, which provides strategic advice to both small and large companies. He serves on the board of the Rumsfeld Foundation, on the board of MDA Information Systems LLC, an American subsidiary of MDA LTD, Canada, and on the boards of several early stage and start-up companies. From 2007-2012 he held senior corporate positions at QinetiQ North America. Prior to that he served in the Bush Administration as the second ranking Department of Defense policy official, the Director of Program Analysis and Evaluation, and as the first Undersecretary of Defense for Policy. He earned his BA at Catholic University and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Claremont Graduate School.
